- Conference scholarships (Attention: applications should be sent as soon as possible and no later than 30 November 2023! Due to the proximity of this date, we enclose information on the application for these scholarships below).
- Application forms for proposals for future conferences (see below).
- Organising and scientific committees.
- Preliminary information on Scientific and Social programs.
- Invited speakers.
- Registration fees and important dates.

Conference scholarships

Applications are invited from research students, early career scientists and those lacking institutional funding for travel scholarships provided by the Permanent Committee of the International Conferences on Ephemeroptera and the International Society of Plecopterologists. The scholarships are for attending the Joint Meeting of the XVII International Conference on Ephemeroptera and XX1th International Symposium on Plecoptera in Turin, Italy in 2024, and are intended to defray some of the travel expenses. A contribution towards the cost of accommodation and the conference fee may also be considered.

Applications should contain:

- Short curriculum vitae, including a list of any publications
- Budget for travel expenses using the cheapest economy air fares and total sum applied for
- Other sources of funding
- A provisional abstract of the proposed presentation or poster
- Contact addresses (postal address and e-mail)

Selection of awards will be based on:

- Financial needs
- Topic of presentation
- Direction of previous research

Applications for mayfly scholarships should be sent by e-mail to Professor Javier Alba-Tercedor, University of Granada, Spain. jalba@ugr.es

Applications for stonefly scholarships should be sent by e-mail to Professor John E. Brittain, University of Oslo, Norway. j.e.brittain@nhm.uio.no

If research covers both orders, send applications to both e-mail addresses. However, it should be stated that applications have been submitted to both committees.

Applications should be sent as soon as possible and no later than 30 November 2023.

Proposals for future conferences

The joint International Conference on Ephemeroptera and International Symposium on Plecoptera usually takes place every three years.

Preliminary proposals to host the following joint conference in 2027 may be submitted from now onwards and at the latest one month before the Turin meeting. Proposals should be presented at the conference in 2024, and a final decision on the conference site will be made shortly afterwards by the joint committees.

A written copy of the proposal should be sent to the chair of each committee:

- International Conferences on Ephemeroptera: Michel Sartori (michel.sartori@vd.ch)
- International Society of Plecopterologists: John Brittain (j.e.brittain@nhm.uio.no)

Proposals should be submitted by e-mail. This facilitates distribution of the proposal to the members of the two committees. Proposals should contain detailed information regarding plans to host the conference.

Contact either chair for additional information.

We hope to see you soon in Turin!
